

Coaches and Officials

KKAcademy Club has adapted extracts from the National Association of Sports Coaches Code of Ethics and Conduct.

Coaches are required to adhere to the Principals outline below:

Humanity:

Coaches must adhere to the British Gymnastics Equity Policy, with regards to rights, dignity, worth and right to self-determination of all members.

Relationship:

Coaches must primarily be concerned with the wellbeing, health and general safety of all members.

Member's should be encouraged to accept responsibility for their own behaviour and performance, and the Coach should strive to develop self sufficiency and independence.

The Coach is responsible for setting and monitoring the boundaries between an effective working relationship and friendship.

The relationship between the Coach and member should be based on mutual respect and trust. The position of trust placed with the Coach must never be abused.

Commitment:

The Coach's commitment in relation to the hours they are willing to work, their goals, and other coaching commitments should be clearly set out upon commencing employment, preferably in a written contract, to minimise any possible conflict.

Cooperation:

Coaches should communicate and cooperate with other Coaches, National Governing Bodies and parents in the interest of all members.

Coaches must not falsely advertise in respect of their qualifications and the services they can provide.

Integrity:

Coaches must refrain from public criticism of a fellow Coach, Official or Governing Body. Coaches should also be prepared to accept responsibility for the conduct of their members. Treatment of opponents and officials should always be respectful.

Coaches must never encourage their members to violate the Rules of the sport.

Confidentiality :

The Coach and the member must reach an agreement as to what is to be regarded as confidential information and not to be divulged to a third party without the approval of the member. Parental guidance will be sought in the case of minors.

This does not preclude persons who can be judged as having a “right to know”.

Abuse of Privilege:

A Coach is in a privileged position when associating with the member and the Coach must not attempt to exert undue influence over the member in order to obtain personal benefit or reward.

Personal Standards:

The Coach must always display the highest personal standards befitting their position as a Coach. The Coach must portray a favourable image with regards to health, cleanliness, dress and acceptable behaviour. The Coach should always be conscious of their position as a role model to their members; this is particularly important when accompanying members away from the Club premises, either within the UK or abroad. Never forget you are representing your members', yourself, your Club and in some cases, your country.

Safety:

The Coach has a responsibility to ensure the safety of the members' within the limits of their control.

Issues of Competence:

Coaches should confine themselves to coaching practices in those areas in which they are qualified. The Coach should regularly seek to increase their professional development, coaching expertise and coaching effectiveness.

Misrepresentation:

A coach must not misrepresent their qualifications, affiliations, or professional competency in any way.

Criminal Convictions:

The Criminal Conviction of a Coach by a Court of Law or a caution issued by the Police must be declared to the employer and to British Gymnastics.

Disciplinary Procedures by an Employer:

A Coach must report to British Gymnastics any disciplinary action taken against them by an employer in connection with their work as a Coach.

Personal Misconduct:

British Gymnastics may take disciplinary action against a Coach if such conduct is deemed to be "Misconduct" or "Gross Misconduct" - even if such misconduct does not lead to disciplinary action by the employer - or lead to a Criminal Conviction in a Court of Law.
